Cases

Case No. JCCP 4396

This Notice Relates To:

Notice of Pendency of Class Action

Anderson v. General Motors Corp.

Judge: Hon. Peter D. Lichtman
Court: Central Civil West
Dept.: CCW 322

TO: All California owners and lessees of 1999-2003 Chevrolet Silverados equipped with 4.8L, 5.3L, 6.0L or 8.1L engines

What This Case Is About:

This class action lawsuit is brought by Plaintiff Jason Anderson against General Motors ("GM"). Plaintiff claims that:

- GM has an "Engine Knock Noise Adjustment Program" that provides subject Silverado owners and lessees with an extended warranty, GM Protection Plan ("GMPP"), or other benefits for free when they complain of engine "knock, ping or slap" noise.
- GM failed to tell all owners and lessees of the subject vehicles that they might be eligible to participate in the alleged Adjustment Program.
- GM's conduct violates California's "Secret Warranty" Law, Cal. Civ. Code § 1795.90 et seq., and the California Unfair Competition Law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

GM denies Plaintiff's claims, and contends that it lawfully assisted a small percentage of Silverado owners and lessees whose trucks may make a particular type of engine knock noise at cold start-up that goes away within a few seconds. GM contends this type of noise has no adverse effect on the durability, reliability or performance of the engine. GM contends it has given assistance in the form of free GMPPs or other goodwill measures to promote customer satisfaction, and that its goodwill measures do not constitute a "secret warranty" or "adjustment program" under California law.

The Court has made no determination whether Plaintiff's or GM's contentions are correct. This Notice is not an expression by the Court of any opinion or wrongdoing.

Class Action Status:

The case has been certified as a class action by the Los Angeles County Superior Court on behalf of the following Class:

All California owners and lessees of 1999-2003 Chevrolet Silverados equipped with 4.8L, 5.3L, 6.0L or 8.1L engines who

- (1) Have an engine "knock, ping or slap" noise in their vehicles; AND
- (2) Were not given notice of the condition giving rise to or the terms and conditions of GM's Engine Knock Noise Adjustment Program.

If you live in California, own or lease one or more of these vehicles, have a knock, ping or slap noise in your engine, and did not receive notice of the alleged Engine Knock Noise Adjustment Program, you are part of the Class, unless you exclude yourself.

Some Common Questions:

How will I know whether my vehicle has an engine “knock, ping or slap” noise?

Your vehicle may have an engine “knock, ping or slap” noise if you or your service technician hears or has heard a knock, ping, slap, tapping or ticking sound in your engine. The sound may go away after the engine warms up.

How will I know whether I was given notice of the condition giving rise to or the terms and conditions of GM’s alleged “Engine Knock Noise Adjustment Program”?

If you complained to GM about an engine knock, ping or slap noise in your vehicle and received or were offered a free or reduced-cost GM Protection Plan (“GMPP”), extended warranty, or other benefits in response to your complaint, then you were given notice of the alleged Adjustment Program.

When will I find out whether I am eligible for an extended warranty, GM Protection Plan (“GMPP”), or other benefits?

A trial date has not been set in this case, but should be scheduled by the Court shortly. It is possible that the Plaintiff will win the case, settle the case, or lose the case at trial or before then.
